

The Daily Gazetteer.

Nona. 507

SATURDAY, JULY 27, 1745.

As the Eyes of the World are at present in a great Measure fasten'd on the Dyot of Election, now assembled for the Choice of an Emperor; and as all Parties seem to agree, that not only the Peace of Germany, but the Tranquillity of Europe, depends in a great Measure thereupon, we cannot entertain our Readers better, being disappointed of Mail, than by given them, from a very good Book, entitled, The Constitution and Government of the German Body, a succinct Account of the Circumstances that attend such an Election.

The Place appointed by the Golden Bull, for the Election of an Emperor, is the City of Frankfort on the Main: Yet this does not hinder, but the Electors may assemble elsewhere, if Circumstances require it, as is sometimes the Case; if so, a Declaration is given to the said City, that the present Alteration shall not prejudice the Right which is granted to it, or confirmed by the Golden Bull.

The said Constitution requires the Magistrates and Burghers of Frankfort, on pain of being deprived of all their Rights, and even on pain of being put under the Ban of the Empire, to engage themselves by Oath, to maintain the Electors, or their Ambassadors, and their Retinues, in Security; not to suffer any Foreigner, of what Condition soever he be, to enter their City, during the Time of the Election; and also to lead out those, who came thither before the Arrival of the Electors. It is plain that this Prohibition is of very great Importance to the Freedom of the Election; and therefore this was what they did not fail to urge, against the Ambassadors of France and Spain, and against the Pope's Nuncio, at the Time of the Election of Charles V.

It is true, that since that Time, the Second Prohibition has not always been so nicely attended to; as was out of Regard to the City of Frankfort, which has great Gainer by the Concourse of Foreigners, that were not to be there at that Time, as for other particular Reasons. But these Instances cannot be look'd upon as a tacit Abolition of the Article of the Golden Bull, which I am speaking; not only, because it was by an express Grant of the Electors, that in some Cases the public Ministers, or other Foreigners, were allowed to remain in the City; but also, because when they gave those Permits, they, at that time, positively declared that they ought not to be drawn into Consequence; and that they reserved to themselves the Right of putting the Order of the Golden Bull in execution, in all Cases where the Circumstances should require it. Part of the Time which the Electors employ in the Election, is taken up in drawing the Capitulation, which is usually prescribed to the new Emperor. By this, I mean, the Articles he is obliged to swear to; which are to be, as it were, the Basis of his Government in the Empire; and, at the same Time, the Support of the Germanick Liberty.

When the Electors have finished their Preliminary conferences about the Candidates for the Imperial Crown, and what is proper to be stipulated with them in the Capitulation, the Elector of Mentz fixes the Day for the actual Election, and notifies it to his Colleagues. On that Day the Gates of the City are kept shut, and the Elector of Mentz keeps the Keys. The Electors repair from the Town House to the Church, with a Pomp suitable to their Dignity; being accompanied with their Guards, and the great Marshals of their Courts bearing the Sword before them in the Vain. The Ambassadors of the absent Electors content themselves with the Splendor of a rich Retinue. They also give the Precedence to the Electors, who are present in Person, even tho' their Master is of superior Rank in the Electoral College.

After having heard Mass at Church, during which, the Protestants are absent, or, at least, just below the Elevation of the Host, they all approach the Altar, to take the solemn Oath prescribed by the Golden Bull. This Oath engages them, by the Faith which binds them to God and the Holy Empire, to defend the Emperor, without caballing, or any View of their particular Interest, &c. him who, according to the Duty of their Knowledge, shall appear to them fit for this Duty. As the Religion of the Protestants does not permit them to use the entire Form of the said Oath, they say, So help me God, and all his Saints, the Catholics also wave it, for avoiding Confusion; so that now both make use of this Phrase, So help me God, and his Holy Gospel.

The Electors, after having taken this Oath, retire to what they call the Conclave; which is the Sacristy, or (as we call it) Vestry-Room of the Church, there to proceed actually to the Election. Those of the Electors Ambassadors who do not represent their Masters at this Ceremony, and some Gentlemen of their Retinue, may enter the Conclave at the same Time. Two of the Imperial Notaries are also called in, that they may be Witnesses of a two-fold Declaration, which the Elector of Mentz demands of his Colleagues, and of the Ministers of the absent Electors, before they proceed to the Vote. He demands, in the first Place, if any of them know of any lawful Impediment why the Election shall not now be made; after which he makes them promise, as it were upon Oath, that they will, in this Election, have Regard to the Majority of the Suffrages, pursuant to the Tenor of the Golden Bull, and to ancient Custom. After they have all explained themselves on this Point in a satisfactory Manner, the Witnesses are dismissed, with a Charge to the two Notaries to make a Record of the Declaration which they have heard.

Then the Elector of Mentz collects the Suffrages of the other Electors, which each of them delivers with an audible Voice, according to his Rank; but the Distinction of Preference between the Electors that are personally present, and the Ambassadors of those who are absent, is then dropped. The Elector of Mentz gives his Vote last. The Election is determined by the Majority of the Voices of the whole Body of the Electors; 1 say, by the Majority of the Voices of the whole Body: For of three Competitors, for Example, one had four Voices, another three, and the third two, neither of the Three would have the Number of Voices that he must have to be lawfully elected; any Elector who has Suffrages for himself, may thereto join his own Suffrage to make the Majority.

The Election being thus finished, they who were Witnesses at the Beginning of this Transaction are called in; when the Elector of Mentz declares to them who is the Person elected; but he is not proclaimed till after he has sworn himself, if he is present, or his Ambassador for him, to observe all the Articles of the Capitulation.

It was proposed at the Election of the Emperor Leopold, to insert in his Capitulation a Commissorial Clause; that is to say, a Clause, importing, "That the Emperor should (de facto) be degraded from his Dignity, if he infringed any of the Articles of that Capitulation." But this Prince having declared in plain Terms, that he would not accept the Imperial Crown upon a Condition so injurious, the Proposition was dropped. And indeed it may be said, that such a Clause had a greater Tendency to kindle a Civil War in the Empire, than to defend its Rights and Freedom against unjust Infrachments.

THE only short and most infallible

Cure in the Universe for the Venereal Disease, from the lightest Infection to the most extreme and deplorable Degree of it, even when the Blood and Juices are roughly contaminated with its malignant Virus, and the Bones are affected with it.

Fresh Infections, call'd CLAPS, with all their attending Symptoms, tho' ever so severe, are entirely cur'd off in a few Days, and so as effectually to prevent the Blood and Juices from being tainted with any remaining Relic on one Hand, or a seminal Gleet or Weakness to lay on the other.

And the most inveterate Degree of the French Ill attended with Nocturnal Pains, universal Swellings, and all the other most exasperated Symptoms, are overcome by it, and effectually and much more safely red than by Salivation, Inunction, or any other Means whatever, and in so easy and pleasant a Manner, without paying Strength, or occasioning any Inconvenience, as to bespeak it the only apposite Remedy, or true Venereal Antidote in the World; and this some Thousands have their great Joy experienced.

It is pleasant to take, occasions no Sickness or Discomfort requires Confinement; but may be taken, and the cure be accomplish'd, without the Knowledge of the nearest Friend.

Those who suspect they have received an Injury, by only a Dose or two of it, be perfectly freed from Apprehensions; for it suffers no lurking Venoms to lay in the Body, but wholly extirpates it Root and Branch, a gentle, easy, and most effectual Manner.
